At the Davis Theatre Friday, Jan. 12.

Flora Bella, most charming of this season's crop of musical comedies, op-erettes and comic operas, and with five nonths' run to enormous business at the Casino theatre, New York, to its bredit, will be the attraction at the Davis theatre Friday evening, Jan. 12. John Cort will send here a specially selected cast of singers, dancers and funmakers. A formidable collection of eniuses are responsible for the mak-ig of this delightful offering. The book is by Fellx Doermann, revised and adapted by Cosmo Hamilton and Dorothy Donnelly. The lyrics are by Percy Waxman, and the score by Charles Cuvillier and Milton Schwarz-wald. The story has to do with the score by Charles Cuvillier and Milton Schwarz-wald. is by Fellx Doermann, revised Princess Manja Demidoff, who previous to her marriage to Prince Nicholas Demidoff, of the Russian nobility, was a cabaret singer at the Sign of the Golden Calf in Petrograd. Believing that a princess should conduct herself in a cold, distinguished manner, Manja so deports herself. The result is that her husband grows tired of the hum-rum monotony and craves for a touch of high life. He discovers a picture in his home of a girl, and accuses her of stooping to the level of a dancer to setre a novel photograph. She explains the picture is that of her twin sister, Flora Bella, and when her husband's friend recognizes the dancer of the Sign of the Golden Calf, Nicholas decides to steal away for a little flirtation with the girl. On the same night Mania is induced to return to her old. Manja is induced to return to her old position to do a special favor for an old friend, and they meet at the resold friend, and they meet at the restaurant. Nicholas falls madly in love with the girl he believes Flora Bella, and there Manja wins back his love. The story is highly interesting, with witty lines and clever situations. The lyrics are brilliant, and the music sparkling and always melodium. sparkling and always melodious. sparkling and always melodious. # NOT BELIEVED THAT MONK Rumored That Story Was Circulated to Facilitate His Escape.

London, Jan. 8, 4.04 p. m.—The Stockholm newspaper Nya Dagligt Al-lehanda, as quoted in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen, says that, according to reliable inform-ation from Petrograd, it is not believed there that the monk Gregory Rasputin, circumstantial stories of whose assassination were published recently, is dead. The statement that his body was taken from the Neva is incorrect, according to this information, and the story of his death was circulated by his friends in order that he might esrape. For several weeks Rasputin has been threatened with death, the newspaper says, but as he is in close custody, it is impossible that he could have been murdered.

Grace Memorial Church Pastor and Singers at Sheltering Arms Service -Comings and Goings of Local People and Their Friends.

Rev. D. B. Reade, pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist church on the West Side, assisted by Rev. Mr. Davis of Montreal, Canada, conducted a heipful service at the Sheltering Arms Sunday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Davis offered the opening prayer. The subject of the address was, The Prayer of Our Lord and the the Prayer of the Publican. Our Lord's prayer is an excan. Our Lord's prayer is an example, so is that of the publican, Mr. Reade began. You need not find holy ground, the place where you are is where prayer will be answered. Pentecost began in the upper room, Isaac was in a field, Israel a brook, and Daniel in a den of lions—all were places of prayer. One does not need to be proficient in piety, the penitent publican had only to say, God be merciful to me a sinner. One is brought to the mercy seat by the Saviour's

O Lamb of God I Come. Man must pray. True prayer is the safeguard of the universe. It points the way to God. Prayer is desire for God and communion with Him. Jesus was ever attentive to the call of those about Him. May the Lord put the spirit of prayer into our hearts.

The musical part of the service was greatly enjoyed by those present. The minister's strong, rich voice was heard with the choir in the hymns which included, In the Cross of Christ I Glory, We Shall Walk With Him in White, O Little Town of Bethlehem, God Be With You Till We Meet Again. From suddence less pleased than yexed,

If it be true that man but once Shall play his part or walk the Shall play his part or walk the stage.

A Caesar be, or mime the dunce, In cap and bell, or ape the sage, Is not there somewhere in the sky. Beyond the starry footlight's glow In Pleiade chair, enthyoned on high A Censor who has judged the show?

And having judged shall ring it down.
The lights and shadows of this play—
The tinseled motley of the crown
That Caesar wore in Cleo's day;
And call another, better show,
Where there is neither fault no:

slip.
And earn the praise that we now know
We've lost in God's great Censorship.

A NEW TESTAMENT PASTOR. Take your last look at the preacher Whose tears gave taste to his bread;
'Twas for others alone that he labored—
Himself uncomforted;
None knew how grand was the toller
Until his brave spirit had fied.

The message he gave to his hearers
Was gained at the Cross and the Throne,
And it came to the hearts that received it
With a power entirely its own;
More helpful, more mighty and lasting
Than records of mortals have shown.

Other preachers, perhaps, were more thronged to.
Having charms which the worldly world please;
Received more honors and praises,
And lived in more comfort and ease;
But this man was more like the Master,
Nearer even the foremost of these.
